

The Naked God

JAN 2017

Wrestling for a grace-ful humanity

Vincent Strudwick with Jane Shaw

978-0-232-53256-2, Paperback (216x135 mm), £12.99, 192pp

HRCV: Christian life and practice. RIGHTS: World.

- An accessible spiritual companion for all seekers wrestling with an unbelieving culture
- Written by two respected theologians
- Foreword by Richard Harries

The Naked God grew, in part, out of the discussions had over four years with a group of people who responded to a notice Vincent Strudwick placed in his local parish newsletter in rural Buckinghamshire in 2010. It was an invitation to wrestle with God – by which he meant teasing out the joy and sorrows of what it means to be human. The book reflects on those conversations with people who had lost faith, never had it, were angered or disappointed in the experience of church, or were just in search of spiritual meaning. It aims to speak into a context in which the majority of the population is estranged from belief as taught by the Church, and yet they still wish to wrestle with the ultimate questions.

This book will look at eight key themes:

- The Meaning of Faith
- The Naked God: not an entity but 'being' itself
- Understanding 'church' with a 'Naked' God
- In what sense is the Bible the 'Word of God' ?
- God, the Church, and change
- The Journey inwards: how may we understand 'spirituality' ?
- Change in the church today: why ? how ? who for ?
- The church in the public global square

Canon Vincent Strudwick is an historical theologian and editor of Towards a New Day: A Monk's Life (DLT: 2015). Jane Shaw is a British historian and Anglican priest. She is currently Dean for Religious Life at Stanford University, San Francisco.

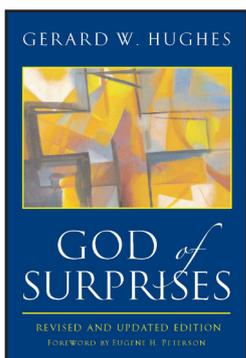

Locations: Oxford/San Francisco.

Waiting on the Word

JAN 2017

Preaching sermons that connect people with God

Lorraine Cavanagh

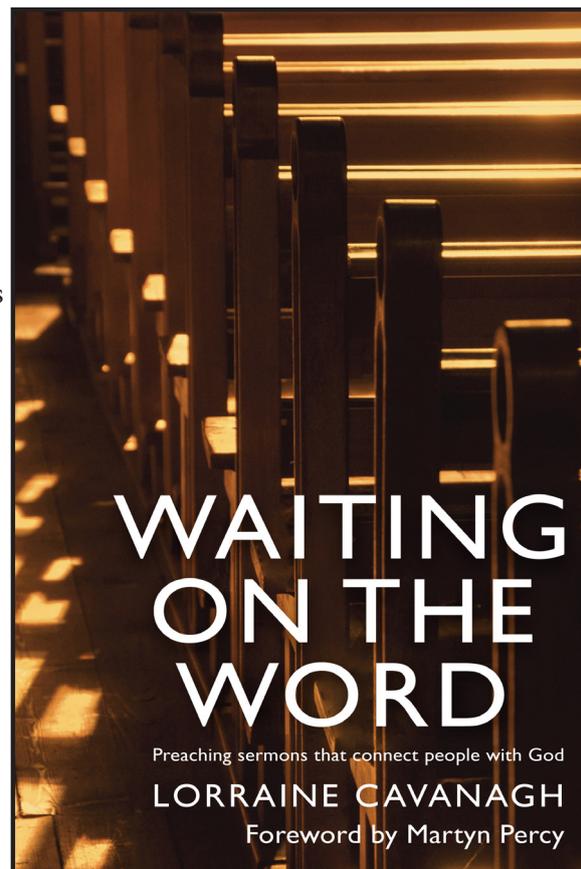

978-0-232-53262-3, Paperback (216x135 mm), £12.99, 192pp

HRCV: Christian life and practice. RIGHTS: World.

- Perfect aide for preachers and lay preachers
- A counter-cultural book that fits in the classic DLT tradition of Maggie Ross and Anne Long - spirituality mixed with theology with a contemplative aspect rooted in humanity
- Foreword by Martyn Percy
- Will also appeal to the interested general reader

The preacher's task is to make it possible for their listeners to meet Jesus Christ in their own lives, rather than to simply 'convert' them. To this end, preachers must connect with those they are speaking to in ways which help them make sense of the Christian faith in their own circumstances and in the times we live in. Waiting on the Word poses a series of questions that go to the heart of the preacher's own vocation:

- What do people expect from a sermon?
- What are their pastoral and intellectual needs?
- How can the preacher feel confident that he or she has the words needed to meet the spiritual, ethical and political challenges of today?
- How can he or she develop 'presence'?

Lorraine Cavanagh is an Anglican priest in the Church in Wales. She has served in a variety of preaching contexts both rural and urban and has led workshops and quiet days on preaching for clergy and lay readers in Wales and England. She writes a weekly blog at jobbingtheologian.blogspot.co.uk. Her website www.lorrainecavanagh.net.

The Great War, Ritual, Memory and God

Rachel Mann

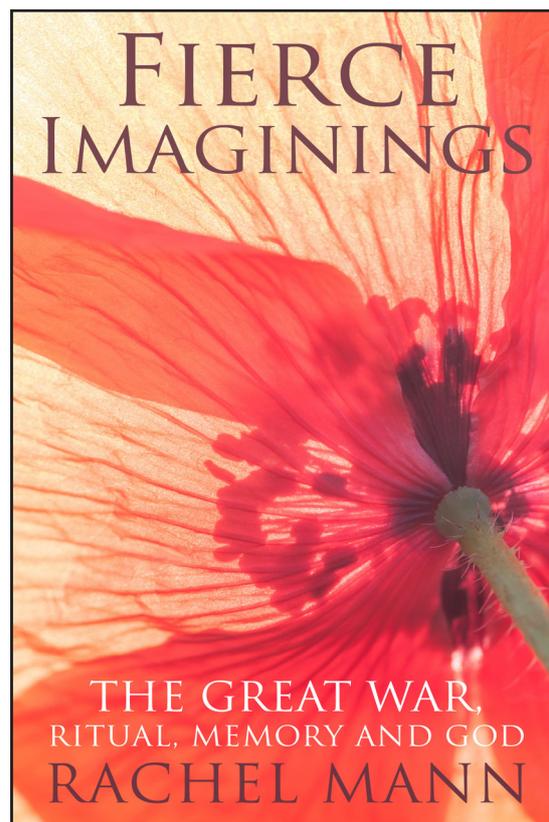

978-0-232-53278-4, Paperback (216 x 135mm), £12.99, 160pp

HBWN: First World War, BM: Memoirs. RIGHTS: World.

- Unique memoir exploring the meaning of the Great War to people today
- Currently the 100th anniversary of the Great War – inc. Passchendaele (31 July 2017 – 10 Nov 2017)
- From Church Times best-selling author of Dazzling Darkness
- Foreword by Rowan Williams

“This is the most searching and original book I have read about the impact of the First World War on the faith and the myths of this country.” Rowan Williams

From Rachel Mann, Canon Poet-in-Residence at Manchester cathedral, comes a lyrical and very personal story of remembrance, faith, family and identity shaped by the chaos and trauma wrought by the Great War and the flux in early twentieth century Europe. Rachel brilliantly explores the significance of the War to all of us today who live under its long shadow – our shared memories, culture and the symbols and relics that linger on all around us, as well as the influence of the Great War on her grandparents and how it echoed through her childhood in 1970s Britain discovering her authentic self in God, undergoing a change of sex and experiencing chronic illness and disability.

Revd Rachel Mann is an Anglican priest, poet and broadcaster. The author of two books, her memoir of growing up trans, ‘Dazzling Darkness’ was a Church Times bestseller. She is minor canon and resident poet at Manchester Cathedral and is a regular contributor to Radio 2’s Pause For Thought.

The Daughters of Charity of St Vincent de Paul in Britain, 1847 - 2017

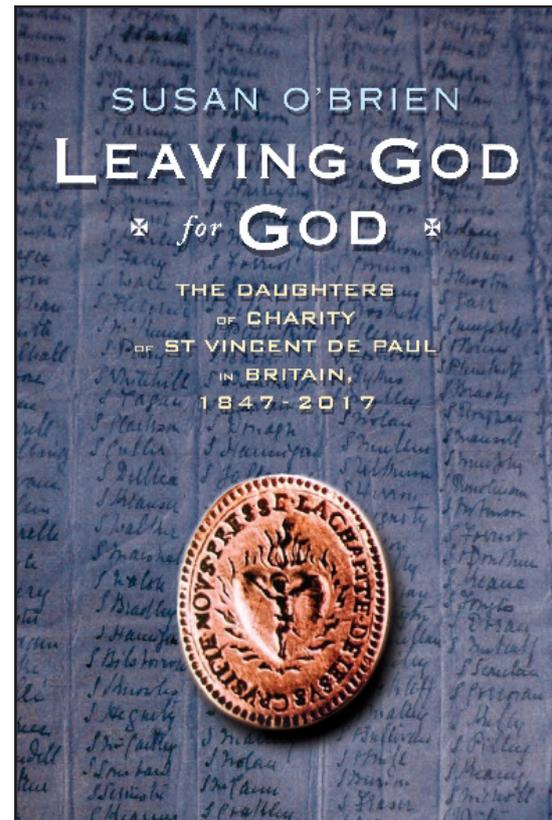

Susan O'Brien

978-0-232-53288-3, Hardback (234 x 156mm), £25, 400pp

HRCV: Christian life and practice. RIGHTS: World.

- The most comprehensive history of the Daughters of Charity in Britain ever published
- Fantastic gift book but also of interest to academics interested in history of religious life for women and of the Catholic Church
- 60pp of colour archive photos

Leaving God for God details the history of an international community of Catholic women, following Jesus Christ in the spirit of St Vincent and St Louise caring for the broken, disadvantaged or marginalised in Britain. The fascinating narrative is told through seven chronological 'visual essays' supplemented by a Gazetteer as an appendix listing every house lived in by the Daughters with a note of its origins and the main works associated with it. The book as a whole ably demonstrates the sheer scale and value of the Daughters' work in the UK.

Susan O'Brien is an editor and graphics designer.

The Daughters of Charity are a community of women who devote their lives to serving the poorest and most abandoned individuals in today's society.

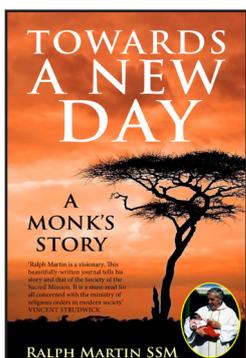

Locations: London (8 houses); England (8 houses - Southport, Liverpool, Hull, Hulme and Warley); Scotland (5 houses - Ayr, Rosewell, Glasgow, Lanark); Wales (1 house in Cardiff); Ireland (23 houses, inc at Belfast, Dublin, Drogheda, Carnew, Cork, Limerick, Galway and Knock).

HRCS: Christianity spirituality and religious experience, AJ: Photography and photographers. RIGHTS: World.

'As someone who has researched visual communications, and enjoys sharing pictures via Instagram and other social media platforms, I enjoyed this gentle book... it will encourage and challenge a wide audience to engage spiritually in something that is now an everyday activity in a digital age.'

Dr Bex Lewis

- Will deepen the reader's vision and sharpen his/her sense of what the spiritual life is truly about through the medium of photography
- Photography is now one of the world's most popular past-times since advent of Smartphone; also an essential form of modern communications
- Attractive design, includes space for readers to journal and paste own photos
- Classic DLT spirituality for a modern generation

Millions of photos are taken every day across the world. Some are just snapshots. Others are more carefully crafted and have the capacity to deepen our vision and sharpen our sense of what life is truly about. Spirituality in Photography explores how photography can offer unique perspectives on the self, the world and what we live by. Readers are invited to take photos more slowly, reframe their gaze, allow themselves to be fully present, and let their photos tell a story - this includes a section on how photography can offer new perspectives on the Bible. The book also explores how photography can help readers meditate on mystery and tune into their own 'rule of life'. Spirituality in Photography offers a range of ideas for readers to try out with their camera or camera phone and invites them on a journey of discovery, as they allow their photography and their spirituality to inspire each other.

Philip Richter PhD is a Methodist minister, currently serving as a Ministry Development Officer in the British Connexional Team. He is a keen amateur photographer and runs courses and writes about photography and spirituality. He co-wrote Gone But Not Forgotten (DLT: 1998).

- An inspirational tale of a remarkable spiritual odyssey
- Interest in John Bradburne's life and spiritual legacy is ever growing
- Introduction by Jean Vanier; abridged in English by David Crystal (British linguist, academic and author)
- Sold 5000+ copies in France, where awarded Catholic Book of the Year

This is the first publication in English of a biography of a British man that has become an award-winning bestseller in France. John Bradburne's life was a remarkable spiritual odyssey. He was a pilgrim, never at home in the world, whose restless wanderings led him through a succession of religious communities, until he eventually settled among a colony of 90 leprosy sufferers in Zimbabwe. It was here, among the poor of 'Mutemwa', that he spent his last ten years with total dedication until he met a violent death at the end of the war for independence on September 5th 1979. Since that time there has been an ever growing following to his memory, and many believe him to be a saint.

Didier Rance is a French priest and historian. He specialises in the history of martyrdom and religious persecution.

- Written as a direct response to fears raised by division in post-Brexit Britain and the election of Donald Trump in the US
- Will inspire readers in times of disharmony and uncertainty

Hidden Wings is a superb book of spiritual transformation and hope for the future, by Margaret Silf, the bestselling author of Landmarks and At Sea with God. As the world around us moves into a period of immense and tumultuous change, and the structures and values by which we have charted our lives seem to be collapsing around us, many people are struggling to plot their spiritual path through an unfamiliar landscape or to believe in tomorrow. Using the analogy of the caterpillar entering the devastating, world-altering stage of the chrysalis, before emerging - transformed - as the butterfly, Margaret Silf demonstrates that this moment could be an opportunity for immense spiritual transformation and hope for the future.

- The Common Good is the theme of the 2017 Greenbelt Arts Festival
- The Common Good is a popular idea among leading Anglican figures in the UK including Justin Welby and Rowan Williams
- Major book engaging on social breakdown and division
- Contributors represent leading Christian social action groups

In Reclaiming the Common Good, leading thinkers and social activists contribute to a collection of essays exploring what is meant by 'The Common Good' (the theme of the 2017 Greenbelt Arts Festival) and how it can be implemented. The book covers the break down of the post-war consensus (including the erosion of human rights/civil liberties, rise of endless war and climate change), thoughts on how to reclaim The Common Good from those who would misappropriate it, and new models of implementing it.

- Will inspire Christians everywhere to live out their faith

Why were the early Christians willing to die to protect a single iota of the creed? Why have the Judeans, Romans, and Persians among others seen the Christian creed as a threat to the establishment social order? In The Creed: Professing the Faith Through the Ages, bestselling author Dr. Scott Hahn recovers and conveys the creed's revolutionary character. Tracing the development of the first formulations of faith in the early Church through later ecumenical councils. The Creed tells the story of how the very profession of our belief in Christ fashions us for heavenly life as we live out our earthly days.

Scott Hahn is founder and president of the St Paul Center of Biblical Theology and bestselling author of over forty titles including The Lamb's Supper and Reasons to Believe.

HRLK: Spirituality and Religious Experience. RIGHTS: World.

'The voice of God comes in many forms, and [in this book] we see just how diversely it can be heard.'

Rowan Williams

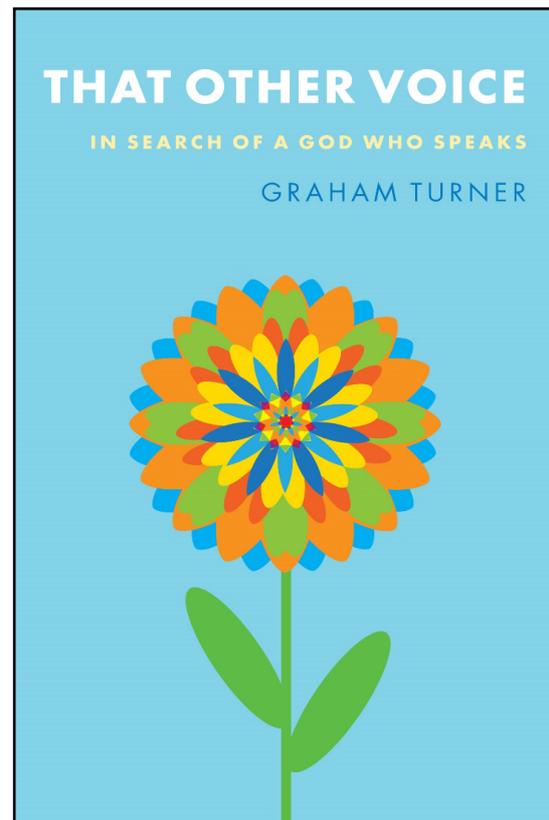

- One of the most accessible books on mindfulness and broad religious experience that you will ever read
- Includes interviews with the Dalai Lama's brother, Rowan Williams, Jonathan Sacks and Martyn Percy
- Foreword by Rowan Williams

That Other Voice is perfect reading for anybody interested in mindfulness and the big questions of life - a fascinating journal of one person's search for an answer to the ultimate spiritual mystery: whether a higher power can communicate with us directly. Graham Turner has journeyed across the world to discuss the question with spiritual luminaries including the Dalai Lama's brother, Rowan Williams and Jonathan Sacks.

Graham Turner has been a national journalist for nearly fifty years. He was the BBC's first economics correspondent (predecessor of Robert Peston), and a senior reporter and feature writer for the Sunday Times, the Daily Telegraph, the Daily Mail, The Money Programme and Panorama for the BBC. Catching up with Gandhi and The Power of Silence. He has written several books including The Power of Silence (Bloomsbury Continuum).

HRCS: Christian Spirituality and Religious Experience. RIGHTS: World.

- Themes explored in It's a Wonderful Life are a perfect fit for an Advent course
- Includes suggested film clips from movie, discussion points, prayers and notes for small group leaders
- Follows classic format of DLT's bestselling Lent courses with film tie-ins

An Advent course for small groups and individuals based on the classic Christmas movie It's a Wonderful Life starring James Stewart. With recommended segments of the film to watch on DVD in each session, the book discusses perfect Advent themes such as: how our lives can change other people's destinies without our truly knowing it, how God uses everything we've been through for his glory, and how what the enemy means for harm, God will turn for good.

Sheila Jacobs is a Christian writer and editor. An award-winning author of eleven novels, she has also co-written non-fiction, including Someone to Believe In - an Advent course based on Miracle on 34th Street.

Women's faith in sexuality

Alison Webster

978-0-232-53263-0, Paperback (216x135 mm), £12.99, 224pp

HRCV4: Christian aspects of sexuality, gender and relationships.

RIGHTS: World.

- Will give voice to women of faith marginalised for their sexuality
- Constructs a new language for women reasserting their faith and in relationships, reflecting the complexity of a world beyond binaries and essentialisms
- Author has a strong following in academic circles centered around feminist theology
- Follow-up to the author's previous book Found Wanting

More than twenty years after Found Wanting, her acclaimed critique of the Church and women's sexuality, Alison Webster presents a positive book of practical theology that gives voice to the experiences of marginalised women. In response to the challenges of today, including people trafficking, greater exposure to internet pornography, a rise in mental ill-health, she puts forward a new model of faith identity based on Jesus as fundamentally a boundary-crosser (divine/human), reclaiming as positive the often painful place of being 'in-between', of not belonging.

Mark Dowd

978-0-232-53309-5, Hardback (198x126 mm), £14.99, 192pp

BM: Memoirs. RIGHTS: World.

'Mark Dowd brings to his funny, moving, and powerful personal narrative the wit of a natural storyteller and the insight of a journalist who's spent decades plying his trade at The Times, the BBC and Channel 4.'

Nick Robinson, presenter Today, Radio 4

- An engaging, thought provoking and often hilarious popular memoir
- In the style of Nigel Slater's Toast, Richard Coles' Fathomless Riches and Russel T Davies' Queer as Folk
- Author's deep faith and positive Catholic spirituality make this a book that will hold appeal to both Christian and LGBT markets

This superb memoir of a gay, working class boy from Manchester exploring how to reconcile his sexuality with his Catholicism is all the more powerful because of his deep knowledge of and commitment to his faith. Spanning the late 1960s to the present day, Mark Dowd's Queer and Catholic chronicles a changing attitude to same-sex attraction over more than half a century and is packed with stories in turn funny, deeply moving and spiritually insightful, including: coming out to his parents by talking in his sleep, training to become a Dominican priest before eloping from a religious order with an ex-friar, and attending the funeral of his father – accompanied by his father!

Mark Dowd is an award-winning broadcaster and journalist who has worked for the BBC, Channel 4, The Times and the Guardian. His cutting-edge documentaries include Queer and Catholic, Abused and Catholic, Tsunami: Where was God? and God is Green. Dowd was raised a Roman Catholic and studied to be a priest at Blackfriars, Oxford before choosing a career in journalism.

RIGHTS: World.

- First-class Christian spirituality by a talented writer
- Gets to grips with particular issues of 21st century life: the search for motivation and identity in a noisy, distracted world
- Appeal to both evangelical market and traditional DLT spirituality market

Undivided Heart is a book about what drives us – reflecting on our motivation and purpose, and need to define ourselves. It leads the reader into the idea of being ‘compelled by the love of Christ’ and driven by the Spirit, asking what this means. How can we seek a new mindset that will help us live a life undivided – not pulled to pieces by desires, ‘labels’ or the multitude of motives within us?

Margaret Silf

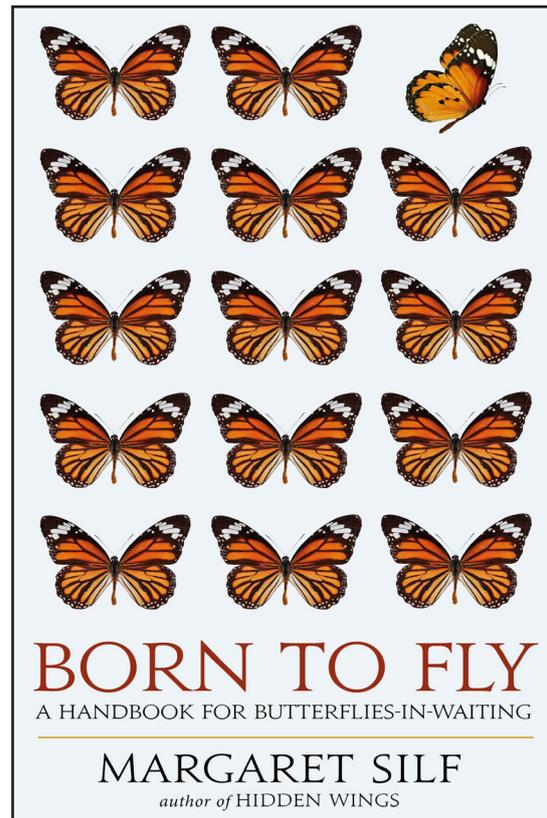

978-0-232-53331-6, Paperback (216x135 mm), £12.99, 160pp

HRCS: Christian spirituality and religious experience.

RIGHTS: World.

- Written as a companion piece to Hidden Wings (DLT: July 2017), itself a direct response to fears raised by division in post-Brexit Britain and the election of Donald Trump in the US
- Will inspire readers in times of disharmony and uncertainty
- There is currently a revival of interest in the work of Teilhard de Chardin
- A perfect fit for a Lent course for 2018

Based on the caterpillar-chrysalis-butterfly metaphor of Hidden Wings, this book offers spiritual insights and wisdom from the likes of Teilhard de Chardin to help us explore what it means to be an agent of spiritual change in our own life and that of the world around us. Written as more of a workbook of spiritual exercises than Hidden Wings, Born to Fly also includes a five-week study guide which readers may choose to study over a Lent period.

Margaret Silf is a writer and speaker, committed to working across and beyond the denominational divides, accompanying others on their spiritual journey. Her books include Landmarks: an Ignatian Journey, At Sea with God and Taste and See: Adventuring into Prayer.

How the Gospel challenges austerity - an Ekklesia Lent course for groups and individuals

Simon Barrow et al

978-0-232-53261-6, Paperback (178x110 mm), £6.99, 144pp

HRCV: Christian life and practice. RIGHTS: World.

- Offers the most comprehensive and up-to-date collection of Christian thought on the political issue of the age – austerity – and what the Bible has to say about it
- Fully supported by and published in conjunction with Ekklesia

This five-week Lent course for groups and individuals looks at the practical issues of austerity versus plenty in modern Britain. It is based on the core gospel theme of feast versus famine. In the way of Christ we grow together through sharing, and are divided by hoarding. Renewing our understanding of what this means for individuals, churches and communities can transform the way we respond to the impact of austerity both locally and globally.

Ekklesia is a web based think-tank promoting theological ideas in the public square. It offers news as well as workshops, conferences, and consultancy services - www.Ekklesia.co.uk.

Virginia Moffatt

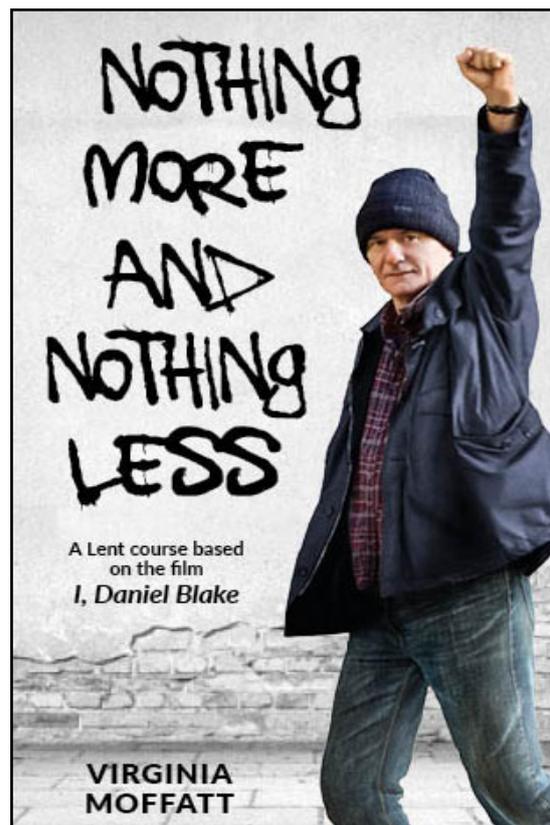

978-0-232-53344-6, Paperback (178x110 mm), £6.99, 128pp

HRCV: Christian life and practice.

RIGHTS: World.

- A Christian response to one the most powerful and talked about films of our times
- Leads to practical application of Bible-based compassion and radical response to oppression
- Includes message from Paul Lavery, writer of I, Daniel Blake
- Follows the style of DLT's popular movie-based Lent course books

The film I, Daniel Blake - directed by Ken Loach and winner of Best British Film at the BAFTAs and Palme D'Or at Cannes - tells the story of two people's struggles with an oppressive and dehumanising benefits system, and represents themes of oppression, compassion and radical response that are at the heart of the Christian gospel. This five-week Lent study, suitable for groups or individuals, encourages readers to consider the stories of the film and how Christians may be called to respond. The chapters cover: Systems of oppression, Staying human, Compassion in the darkness, Fighting back or giving in?, and the suffering servant. Nothing more and Nothing less should be studied alongside the film of I, Daniel Blake - the book includes scene timings for key scenes, discussion points, meditations and suggested prayers.
