'Prayer brings you to hope. And when things become dark, with more prayer there will be more hope.'

Pope Francis

Prayer, according to Pope Francis, does not work 'like a magic wand' but instead helps 'us to keep faith in God, and to entrust ourselves to him even when we do not understand his will'. This booklet brings together a selection of the prayers Pope Francis has issued since taking office and not only highlights his special devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary but also his sincere engagement with issues such as peace, the environment and the family.

Pope Francis: Selected Prayers will make a wonderful resource for any home, school or parish and will help enrich the contemplative lives of those seeking words of encouragement and solace on their Christian journey.

Dublin-born military chaplain Willie Doyle SJ died in action during the Battle of Passchendaele on 16 August 1917, having been hit by a German shell while rushing to the aid of wounded soldiers trapped in no man's land. In To Raise the Fallen, Patrick Kenny introduces readers to this remarkable figure from Irish Catholicism whose faith, courage and generosity in the face of untold devastation continues to inspire Christians and non-Christians alike.

To Raise the Fallen comprises a selection of Willie Doyle's rich and vivid letters from the front, alongside diary entries, prayers, spiritual writings and extracts from pamphlets on vocations that made him a source of worldwide devotion in the first half of the twentieth century. Father Doyle's compassion, cheerfulness and humility, alongside his great valour in wartime, are testament to his commitment to the Gospel, while his final act of bravery truly epitomises Christ's edict that there 'is no greater love than to lay down one's life for one's friends'.

PATRICK KENNY
Dr Patrick Kenny is senior lecturer in the College of Business at the Dublin Institute of Technology. He has a keen interest in the history of Catholicism in Ireland and blogs about Father Willie Doyle in his spare time [see fatherdoyle.com].

'Fr Doyle was one of the best priests I have ever met, and one of the bravest men who ever fought or worked out here.'

LAUDATO SI': AN IRISH RESPONSE
Essays on the Pope's Letter on the Environment

In 2015 Pope Francis published Laudato Si': On Care for Our Common Home, the first papal encyclical devoted exclusively to the subject of the environment.

In this timely companion volume, Sean McDonagh has invited a host of eminent theologians, academics and environmentalists, all living and working in Ireland, to offer their own responses to this landmark work. With voices from various backgrounds – anthropological, sociological and theological – Laudato Si': An Irish Response explores what one contributor dubs the 'disruptive power' of Pope Francis' encyclical and its crucial call for 'ecological conversion'.

ONLY LOVE BREAKS OPEN THE TOMBS

Translated by Bishop Donal Murray

As an Assumptionist priest and chaplain working in the Hautepierre Hospital in Strasbourg, Denis Ledogar has spent much of his life comforting, consoling and learning from those in the last stages of life. In Only Love Breaks Open the Tombs, he brings together the testimonies of patients he has encountered who candidly share their thoughts on life, loss and illness as they contend with failing health and the spectre of mortality.

The goal of this book is to address 'the delicate subject of the accompaniment of the human being at the end of life' and is centred on 'seven stages' which the author has witnessed in those approaching death. This moving account of one man's experience offering pastoral care to the terminally ill not only demonstrates how a patient's final days can be lived with dignity and meaning but how, in ministering to those who are ill, we demonstrate that it is only love that 'breaks open the tombs'.

The Society of St Vincent de Paul has been at the heart of the campaign for social justice in Ireland since its formation in the mid-nineteenth century. As national president for the organisation in the late 1990s, Noel Clear was credited with helping to transform the running of the organisation and for his tireless work in advocating for the disenfranchised in Ireland.

In this touching tribute, Gerry Jeffers explores the life and times of Noel Clear, illuminating not only his work with St Vincent de Paul but also his commitment to social justice, demonstrated through his pioneering work as a probation and welfare officer in the Department of Justice for thirty years. Clear Vision illuminates Clear's life as a leader and friend and explores his lifelong championing of the Irish language through his membership of Conradh na Gaeilge. Above all, however, the author explores Clear's commitment to his Christian faith, nowhere more evident than in his indefatigable work with the poor. As Joe Duffy writes in his foreword, 'Anyone reading this honourable and noble book about such an honourable and noble man will quickly realise that we need more people like Noel Clear – now more than ever.'

THE DIGITAL PARISH

The last decade has seen exponential growth in the popularity and range of digital platforms, with social networking services such as Facebook and Twitter transforming the ways in which people communicate. In The Digital Parish, Brenda Drumm explores the many ways in which digital media can be adopted as a means of evangelisation in a parish setting and explains how we can celebrate and communicate the Christian message online. The book also includes short case studies examining the use of social media in parish, diocesan and pastoral contexts, with clear and concise pointers on how to use digital media effectively.

55 WAYS TO CONNECT WITH FAMILIES IN YOUR PARISH

Taking inspiration from the teachings of Pope Francis in his exhortation Amoris Laetitia, 55 Ways to Connect with Families in Your Parish is a guidebook for clergy and parish pastoral councils looking for new ways to encourage families in their parishes to take part in the day-to-day life of the Church. Sister Kent suggests approaching this book as 'a menu' from which a pastoral leadership group can select creative ways of connecting with families during the liturgical year and adapting them as they see fit. Included alongside the fifty-five ideas are stories and readings, prayers and suggestions, as well as scriptural quotations and moments for reflection.

INTER-BELIEF DIALOGUE IN CONTEMPORARY IRELAND

Patricia Kieran's latest book addresses the need for a readable and informative introduction to inter-belief dialogue in contemporary Ireland. Divided into three sections, the volume first considers the nature and relevance of inter-belief dialogue in schools and in the public square, underscoring the importance of respectful and empathetic inter-faith dialogue in building a healthy multicultural society. The book then gives voice to members of various belief and faith communities as they live out their beliefs in contemporary Ireland, exploring key challenges and opportunities for inter-belief dialogue in a world characterised by increasing intolerance.

HOLY FAMILIES: SHADOWS OF THE TRINITY

'The triune God is a communion of love, and the family is its living reflection.'

These words, taken from the apostolic exhortation Amoris Laetitia (The Joy of Love) by Pope Francis have inspired this new book by Megan McKenna. In it, the author explores the key scriptural accounts of the Holy Family as a model and guide for all families. Reflecting on key Gospel events – including the Annunciation, the Visitation and the Nativity – this book highlights how the Holy Family, and all families, are shadows of the image of God and the foundation of life and community. As we prepare to celebrate the World Meeting of Families in Dublin in 2018, Holy Families provides the reader with a series of reflections and meditations that will inspire and sustain.

MATT TALBOT: AN INTRODUCTION

This short book explains how a seemingly unremarkable Dubliner became an inspiration for those suffering from addiction around the world. Born into poverty in the mid-nineteenth century, Matt Talbot's early adulthood was blighted by crippling alcoholism but, in a remarkable turn of events, he would go on to overcome his addiction, join the Pioneer Association and inspire Christians around the globe with his forbearance, spiritual zeal and charitable acts. Declared venerable by Pope Paul VI in 1975, Matt Talbot's example of great faith triumphing over adversity continues to inspire those struggling with alcohol and drug dependence to this day.

MEDITATION WITH CHILDREN

A Resource for Teachers and Parents

This book examines what the wisdom traditions and religions of the world mean by 'meditation,' and explores its benefits and fruits for those who incorporate the practice into their daily lives. It also gives voice to the child's experience of meditation and its fruits. Aimed primarily at teachers and parents, it first encourages adults to understand and experience meditation for themselves, before equipping them with the tools to introduce the practice to children in school and at home. The author also highlights ways in which meditation can help children to relax, become aware of their innate spirituality and engage more compassionately with their peers.

HOMILIES FOR THE SUNDAYS OF YEAR B

In the forthcoming liturgical year, beginning on the First Sunday of Advent and ending on 25 November 2018 (the Feast of Christ the King), much of what we hear during the Liturgy of the Word comes from the Gospel of Mark. In this rich and insightful resource, Fr Martin Hogan has compiled a collection of his homilies on the Sunday readings for the Year of Mark for the benefit of homilists, laypersons and anyone who would like to prayerfully reflect on Mark's gospel. Although rooted in scripture, the homilies included here are concerned with the challenges facing Christians in the modern world and are written with a lightness of touch that will appeal to both preacher and lay reader alike.

DEFENDING HOPE

Published at the behest of Dublin-based human rights charity Front Line Defenders, Defending Hope is a moving and inspiring collection of accounts from lawyers, activists and journalists with first-hand experience of the conflict in Palestine. With testimony from both Palestinian and Israeli activists, Defending Hope seeks to offer a hopeful counter-narrative to many of the common misconceptions about Palestine, with the contributors unified in their quest to find hope in an otherwise bleak landscape by choosing non-violence, compassion and optimism as a means of overcoming divisions.

With the proceeds of this book going towards protecting human rights activists, including the contributing writers who are still active in Palestine, Defending Hope asks of its readers to listen without prejudice, to become actively engaged in tackling injustice and to learn from both sides of every story.
